"BRIGHT EYES" HAS SPIRIT SLEUTH BY NAME "RED LIGHT"

The Little Indian Maid's Detective Shadowed Folk When Her Bishop, Mrs. Pepper, Wanted to Know of Their Movements

There were several startling developments at the inquiry into the sanity of Edward Ward Vanderbilt, the elderly husband of May Scannell Pepper-Vanderbilt, before the lunacy commission in the County Court, Brooklyn, to-day. One was the materialization in the testimony of a new spook named Red Light, and another was the calling of a mysterious "woman in blue" as a witness.

Red Light, it seems, is a spook sleuth, who was assigned by the dusky little acrobat, Bright Eyes, to keep tabs on Mrs. Pepper's gentlemen friends. Red Light trailed these friends and then reported to Bright Eyes, who, in turn, reported to Mrs. Pepper.

This and other interesting spiritualistic mysteries were revealed in the testimony of the "woman in blue."

She was the first witness called by Lawyer Rosenberg, counsel for Miss Minerva Vanderbilt, who is seeking to have her parent declared incompetent.

"What else did Mrs. Papper tell you?"

"I beg of you not to go into that," gasped the witness. "I will tell you the rest. Mrs. Pepper was very jealous of Mr. Allen. She sald she loved him very dearry. She sald she was so fond of rest. Mrs. Pepper was very jealous of Mr. Allen. She said she loved him very dearly. She said she was so fond of him that she had Bright Eyes looking after him, keeping constant watch on what he did and where he went.

Aha! The Spirit Sherlock. "Mrs. Pepper said that Bright Eyes at the present time, I request that the name of the witness be kept from the public. I believe that, under the law, this can be done."

Mr. Ketcham consented to exclude the name of the witness, though he intimated to the reporters that they might learn it later in the proceedings. The woman in blue seemed very nervous when she took the stand and gave her testimony in a low, tremulous tone.

"Mrs. Pepper said that Bright Eyes had sent a detective spirit, Hed Light out sent and report to her if he became interested in any other woman. No matter where he went or what he did, Red Light would find it out and report it to Bright Eyes. Then only the Bright Eyes got Mrs. Pepper in control she would tell her.

"I believe that Mrs. Pepper said that Bright Eyes pirit, Red Light had sent a detective spirit, Red Light had sent a detective spirit, Red Light had sent a detective spirit, Red Light, and sent a detective spirit, Red Light had sent a detective spirit, Pepper to detective spirit, Red Light had sent a detective spirit, Red Light had sent a detective spirit, and sent a detective spirit had sent a

The witness remembered that Mr. Allen had given a wedding ring to Mrs. Pepper, but was not sure whether it was intended for her or for Bright

"The old man" referred to was Mr. Vanderbilt. The witness had heard the medium speak of Mr. Vanderbilt as "the old fool," and say that she was "looking for an old geezer like that to take care of her for the rest of her like that to take care of her for the rest of her net, at the foot of Morton street. Bright Eyes Rejects One Wooer. The testimony switched to a man the following Wall street men: Charles amed Libby. The witness had often Lanter, George S. Baker, W. B. "Yes she said, he was very generous, I imagine she thought him a very good thing. She would say. I might as well get all I can from him, for if I didn't some other medium would. She said, He is an old foo, but he can't help it! I heard her say this several itimes.

"At another time Mrs. Pepper said that Mr. Vanderbilt loved his wife; that he believed in the eternia union of souls, and that he and his dead wife were united in eternia." Therefore, she resented any insinuation that he loved her. The susgession of love for him she resented as an insuit. She said if he ever confessed his love for her she will put him in his proper place."

"Did Mrs. Pepper ever defend love?" Yes. She said love was a magnetic vibration. If it exclusived itself, the often declared that she had the right to love as many men as she pleased."

The young woman did not know a man named. Winslow, but had heard the medium talk of him. Mrs. Peoper was engaged to marry nim, she said but he committed suicide.

Mr. Rosenberg wrote her name on a slip of paper and handed it to the stenographer, whereupon he proceeded to question her. He drew out that she had met Mrs. Pepper several years ago and had been on terms of intimate friendship with her. She had visited Mrs. Pepper so many times in 1905 that she could not count them.
